SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

6 SEP 88

Terry Waite, Terry Anderson, and Jesse Turner are currently being held captive in a small rectangular, brown dirty prison with dirt floors and located between the areas of "Maksah" and "Al Marj" in the Beqaa Valley. See "X" at ENCLOSURE 1. The prison facility is normally used as a temporary holding area. The surrounding area was described as brown, rocky, dry and desolate desert land. "Qa'ar Rim" and "Dahr al Qissisiyah" located north of the holding area, are used by the captors as communications center and logistical support bases. "Qa'ar Rim" is the more important of the two; it maintains radio contact with Beirut as well as with Teheran (via code in the latter case). The area designated as "Ablah" will be the last location to harbor the hostages (Waite/Anderson/Turner). It is anticipated these three hostages will be flown to Teheran from Riyaq Airfield and subsequently released from Teheran. Terry Waite, at his own insistence, will not be among the first to be released despite the apparent, favorable, ongoing negotiations pursued on his behalf. Waite insists on not being freed until such time as all other hostages have been liberated. The Shiites would prefer freeing Waite first on humanitarian grounds in view of a stomach ailment reportedly being experienced by Waite. All three hostages are aware of one another's presence. Waite and Turner are in decent physical condition. Anderson appears physically and troubled with leg problems; he is gaining strength.

poor condition, in a "near vegetable state"; their limbs, particularly their legs are weak and rubbery from disuse and lack of exercise. They are located in the vicinity of "As Sahah" and are intermittently driven around in a van by the captors who are looking for a suitable, final place to dump them. They will be dumped in about six days and subsequently found by the Israelis (from Marun ar Ras). See ENCLOSURE 2.

Robert Polhill has not changed location; however he has been moved to the second floor. See "X" at ENCLOSURE 3. There is an improvement in his physical condition, but he remains quite ill. The mounting of a voice communication intercept from a nearby structure may be feasible in this case.

Rudolf Cordes, German national, Edward Tracy and Frank H. Reed along with about eight other hostages were to a new location found immediately south of Gharifah (ENCLOSURE 4). There is a small green and white school house with broken windows in the immediate area of the site.

USMC LTC William (Rich) Higgins is currently located in an office-type building sited immediately south of the designation "Sands Road". See ENCLOSURE 5. It was described as a "port of call"; LTC Higgins is in the company of Syrian officers in a cordial and friendly atmosphere. He is cleanly dressed, well-fed, and awaiting release.

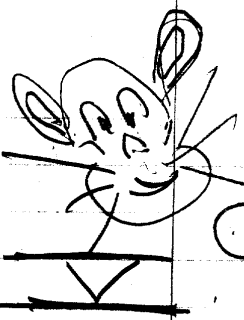

Thomas Sutherland is located at the Beirut International Airport amid a series of structures that resemble aircraft hangars. See ENCLOSURE 6. During the course of this release, he will follow in the footsteps of LTC Higgins. However, LTC

Higgins will be released first and subsequently Sutherland will be released.

(NOTE: There is continuing tendency to confuse the identities and locations of Sutherland and Turner. Sutherland is appears to be located at the Beirut International Airport while Turner is with Waite and Anderson).
